WORK EXPERIENCE

Front-end Developer   2021

AASTU | Pbl Team

During my time with the project-based learning team at AASTU, I had the opportunity to work on front-end development for several exciting projects. As a front-end developer, my primary responsibility was to create the user-facing elements of web applications, including the layout, design, and functionality of the website.

Backend- Developer   2022

Mining Departmentl | AASTU

During my time as a backend developer for the AASTU mining department The website was designed to serve as an online library for rocks and minerals, providing students and researchers with a comprehensive database of geological information.

As a backend developer, my primary responsibility was to develop the server-side components of the website, including the database and application programming interfaces (APIs). This involved working with a range of technologies, including PHP, MySQL, and RESTful APIs. I worked closely with the front-end developers to ensure that the website was responsive and provided an intuitive user experience.
